The changes which have been woman't upon those coming in contact with this institution have been so rapid and sweeping that it challenges credulity. The difference between them and the Navajos on some other parts of the reservation is so marked that they would not be taken for the same people, and it is these differences that commend the policies and practices the lated by Mr. She'ton at this institution and places it in favorable contrast with other government and private Indian schools.

CUSTOMS MEN PUZZLED

It took five aren and three women at the custom house and the atk buyer of a Louisville depertment store to fix the value of a kimono which arrived at the office of the sur-
